Summary

This was a focused inspection, and, on this occasion, we only considered well-being and leadership and management.

Children are happy, settled and enjoy their time at the setting. They have plentiful play and learning opportunities to choose from. Children of all ages enjoy socialising with their friends and engaging in the interesting opportunities that are on offer to them.

Leadership and management of the setting is strong. The person in charge (PiC) is very well supported by the responsible individual (RI). The management team play a vital role in the day to day running of the nursery to help create better outcomes for children.

Well-being

As this was a focused inspection, we have not considered this theme in full.

Children are consistently encouraged to make their own decisions about how they spend their time at the setting. They can choose from a variety of exciting and enjoyable activities. For example, children actively play in the mud kitchen or wash their dollies in the water tray. Children developed their imagination and creativity well. For example, they worked as a team to create an ice cream parlour scene and encouraged their friends to buy some by saying, 'ice cream, ice cream for sale'.

Children are happy, safe, and valued. They are developing friendships in line with their age and stage of development. Children are making strong attachments with the staff who care for them. For example, a child sought a member of staff's attention when another child took a toy off them. They shared their worry with the staff member, and as a result both children co-operated well together and happily shared the toy.

Older children are confident to approach visitors with one child telling us of their enjoyment at attending the setting, 'I go new school, then Giraffe. I like going to Giraffe'. Children's independence is encouraged with some children using the toilet and washing their hands independently.

Leadership and Management

As this was a focused inspection, we have not considered this theme in full.

Leadership and management of the setting is strong. The statement of purpose is in-depth and provides parents with the relevant information about the setting so they can make an informed decision about its suitability for their child.

Policies and procedures are up to date. Some have been recently updated following a review of procedures. Staffing ratios are maintained in line with regulations in each childcare room. All staff members receive regular supervision and appraisals to discuss their practice, professional development, and any safeguarding concerns they may have.

People who run the setting ensure any complaints they receive are dealt with thoroughly and in line with the setting's policy. During the inspection, we saw evidence that recent complaints had been dealt with and that thorough investigations had been carried out by both the nursery manager and the senior management team, including the responsible individual. The management team ensure that any learning taken from their investigations are implemented and changes made, where needed.
